In the above entitled claim for pension, claimant should state, under oath, whether she intended her declaration filed Jan. 9, 1914, as a claim for pension under the general law or as one under the act of April 19, 1908, as she failed to state therein under what law she intended to apply for pension.

In order to bring title to pension under the general law it is necessary to show by competent evidence that the soldier's death was due to his military service, while in a claim under the Act of April 19, 1908, such evidence is not required.

Pension, if allowed, under the general law commences on the day after the soldier's death, or under the Act of April 19, 1908, on the date of filing the claim, the rate of pension

I am interested in the above-entitled pension claim which has been pending since January last,having been submitted by W . H . K . Bush, Claim Agent.

We have promptly met every request for information,-and they have been numerous. The last was furnished some months ago.

Mr. Bush tells me his written inquiries to Pension Bureau as to cause of delay have been ignored.

May I trouble you to ascertain the reason of the hold-up;also,to secure the return of the soldier's Discharge, which was sent on in answer to demand of pension office.
